INTRODUCTION BY NATIONAL FEDERATION PRESIDENT

Dear Judo Friends,

From the origins, Jigoro Kano desired that our discipline judo, a real "school of life," exceptional method of physical and moral education, accessible to all public, from the youngest to the oldest, could be practiced assiduously all the life.

The French Judo Federation, with more than 600 000 members of all ages by organising, these Championships (individual and team competitions) in Paris at the Judo Institut, fits directly in this philosophy.

Like practice of kata, taïso, extending of technical mastery, nage-waza and ne-waza or intensive randori practice, these European Veteran Championships give the meaning and the clarity to the complex adventure of learning judo overall and thus give a great motivation contributing positively to personal development and fulfilment of judoka.

It's impossible to progress alone on the tatami. To correct our defects, mistakes, to improve, we need an exigent mirror to receive in return the results of our actions. Only complicity and harmony between two protagonists of the combat, or rather duo can optimally express themselves and are the sources of efficiency. It is therefore necessary in judo to be receptive, to be open to the other, considering him not as an adversary but as a partner.

These Championships, a privileged meeting place, are favourable for judo and human exchanges. For those involved in this adventure, it's an exceptional opportunity to acquire an invaluable and irreplaceable experience in Paris, thus contributing to a better understanding of judo in its reality and its values and humanistic culture.

The quest for excellence is not a way reserved only to the young elite at the peak of fitness.

Excellence is above all a state of mind, a way of being and thinking, independent of age that characterize all our veterans judo participants in these European Championships in Paris.

Jean-Luc ROUGE
President
French Judo Federation
